

Catedral Alta Patagonia, Bariloche

Argentina's original ski resort, Catedral Alta Patagonia, is the largest and best developed in South America, offering more lifts, runs, facilities, restaurants, nightlife and shopping. Stay in the Euro-style mountain village for fast access to 1130m vertical of above and below treeline runs with incredible views at every turn.

For more action it's easy to head down to bustling Bariloche outside the morning and afternoon rush hours, for all-night après and late night shopping and dining.

Access is easy – arrive same day from Australia in fact, Bariloche being a 2 hour flight south from Buenos Aires.

Nearby smaller resorts like Villa La Angostura make an easy add-on to a week in Bariloche using the same airfares for a 2 resort trip – ask for details.

We have a range of other apartments, houses and hotels available on mountain and in downtown Bariloche, but we do not recommend staying there due to congestion to/from slopes and at base lifts/hires when that morning rush arrives.

Airfares: Options include direct Qantas flights to Buenos Aires, or with LAN or Aerolineas Argentinas via Auckland. Ask for latest specials.
